NUMISMATIC FLEA MARKET

U. S. Colonial Coins. 1766. Pitt Halfpenny token. Strictly Very Fine; a light, even golden-brown color. Unusually clean and free of handling nicks 34.50

1787 New Jersey. Cent. Maris 6-d. Outline to shield. Very Fine for piece, also clean .. 32.50

(1792-4) Kentucky. "Cent" token. Plain edge. EF, traces of red. Unevenly struck, as usual 19.50

1794 Franklin Press "Cent" token. Close to Unc., a bold, attractive olive-brown. Nice! 39.50

(1795) LIBERTY AND SECURITY Penny. Better than Extremely Fine and partly lustrous, but a poor strike, with two or three very minor obverse defects. Still, attractive and popular 49.50

American Revolutionary Coinage. 1776. Continental Dollar. CURRENCY variety. Pewter. Strictly Uncirculated. Bright and lustrous, and free from the inevitable signs of metal deterioration and/or corrosion, but displaying a minor handling mark or two, on each side, common with these soft metal coins. Issued by authority of the Continental Congress, presumably under the resolution of February 17, 1776 (which authorized the issuance of fractional paper notes, bearing in essence the same design types). In our opinion, the FIRST UNITED STATES COINED DOLLAR, from dies by Elisha Gallaudet, struck in limited quantities either in New York or Philadelphia. In a similar class with the 1792 "Half Disme," and other early Mint Patterns, and certainly of far greater historical importance. . . . Undoubtedly the most underrated and unappreciated U. S. coin type, in a distinctly unique series .. 650.00

Regular U. S. Coins. 1913. Buffalo Nickel. Type I. Dull, matte proof. Only 1,394 struck! 74.50

1868 "S". Quarter. Fully Very Fine; obtained as "EF." A "sleeper," with 96,000 coined 32.50

1805/4 Half Dollar. Haseltine 3; Beistle 2-C. The "clear 4" variety. About Extremely Fine, for this weakly struck rarity. Not struck-up at Liberty's hair, the word LIBERTY above, and upon the reverse high points (as usual), but with a nicely toned surface, showing traces of lustre. Ex Menjou (1950), lot 2306. R. E. Cox, Jr., of Fort Worth, Texas, paid the Kagin brothers $730 for his specimen, which Stack's called "Just about Very Fine," when they sold the Cox collection last year. The inferior Cox piece brought $425, as lot 1764. A bargain at 367.50

1799 Silver Dollar. Bolender 11a. No berries in reverse branch; die break above "D" of UNITED. Fine to VF, but with two obverse rim nicks and a rim flan defect; one of the nicks "bruise-like." However, a very rare variety, and hardly as bad as we make it sound 58.50

Commemoratives. 1936. Cincinnati set, "P", "S", "D". Only 5,005 sets made. Almost fully bright, choice "virgin" Unc., in the original holder of issue. In great demand! 3 Pcs. 272.50

1936 Columbia, S. C., Sesqui. set, "P", "S", "D". Only 8,007 sets made. Deeply tarnished Unc.; and still in the original "Eggers" card of issue. Also very popular! 3 Pcs. 83.50

1937 Arkansas set, "P", "S", "D". Only 5,505 sets made. Partly tarnished, partly bright Unc., in the original Stack black case of issue. Actually, as rare as the Cincinnati set, but not wanted nearly as much as that issue of a "type" coin. Hard to find cased. 3 Pcs. 29.00

Transitional Small Cent. 1859. Indian head. With the reverse of 1860; oak wreath and shield. Brilliant, select Uncirculated. A rare cent of REGULAR ISSUE, struck late in 1859, and not a "Pattern" as indicated by the E. H. Adams listing. Recognized and published by David Proskey and J. W. Scott as a regular issue, over half-a-century ago. Probably as many as 1,000 pieces struck; comparable in rarity to the famous 1856 Flying Eagle cent. Can only go up! 285.00

Hawaiian Coins. 1882. 1 Rial. Haiku Plantation token. Thick planchet; reeded edge. Gould 42; R-6. Very Fine. Fairly priced at 82.50

1881 Kalakaua I. Pattern Nickel (5 Keneta). Bearded bust l., KING OF SANDWICH ISLANDS, etc. Struck in a nickel alloy (the intended metal of issue) upon a thin flan. The rarest variety of these rare coins, with "MAILI.FCHORT" on the edge. See Gould 71; R-8. Dull, uncleaned Proof. (The edge inscription presumably refers to the composition: "Maillechort" is the name of a nickel-silver alloy.) Records for the commoner, uninscribed types, to $800. Our piece, a bargain, @..... 590.00

England. 1804. George III. Pattern Dollar. BANK OF ENGLAND. Bronze; very thick planchet. Plain edge. Attractive, but dull; not quite perfect Proof, by Boulton & Watt. Very rare 82.50

Haiti. 1850. Faustin I. 6¼ Centimes. Crowned head l. Copper. Guttag 2200; Fonrobert 7612. Abt. Extremely Fine, traces of lustre. Very rare. $27.50. Same, just VF; dull 22.50

Russia. 1828. Nicholas I. 3 Roubles. Platinum. Friedberg 118. Mostly brilliant PROOF. Only 20,000 regulars struck; second only to 1841 in rarity (of the dates made for circulation). An important and desirable coin in Proof! Certainly genuine, unlike many recently offered 337.50

Bargain Special of the Month. 1918/7 "S". Quarter. Brilliant, lustrous Uncirculated. An uneven, poor strike (as usual), weak at head, shield and drapery (obv.); at eagle's breast (rev.), but with full, complete mint frost. A "virgin" coin, uncleaned, unpolished, with the original surfaces of issue. (Mint lustre upon areas of flat striking indicates a weak impression, and proves that a coin has not been rubbed or worn.) This piece is offered, just the way that it left the Mint (and the way that this rarity is invariably seen, when found choice), for only 1825.00

THE LEGEND OF RINCÓN

By

Ray Byrne, LM 297

OVER four and a quarter centuries ago fate smiled kindly on a family bearing the name of Rincón, who, fortunately, for them, were "on the scene" when Viceroy Don Antonio de Mendoza arrived in Mexico City in the summer of 1535, carrying with him the edict to establish the first casa de moneda (house of money) in the Western hemisphere. Thus began the saga or legend of one Francisco del Rincón whom Mendoza appointed as the first ensayador (assayer) of the Mexico City Mint from which was issued the first coinage of the Americas in April, 1536. The history of Rincón evolves as one of the most fascinating stories in numismatic history.

Mexico 4 maravedis 1536-1538 obverse, Charles and Johanna (Byrne collection)

Many are the arguments and long the discussions revolving around Francisco del Rincón by our eminent Spanish American historians of numismatics who, in their turn, have listed both Francisco and his brother Alonzo as first mint master at Mexico. Medina, Herrara, Quadras, Burzio, Pradeau, Guttag, Raymond, Fonrobert, Risk and Nesmith have all given us the basis and fundamentals of this most interesting series of coins. It was not, however, that their disagreements were vital to the coinage itself, but rather to the sequence of issue of the coins themselves and to the exactness of historical records as to who was the first assayer. It was not until the last mentioned historian (Nesmith) had uncovered and translated the official archives of Spain relating to the monetary history of her Viceroyalties, that any semblance of order could be stated with any sense of authenticity. These findings prove conclusively that Francisco del Rincón was appointed by Mendoza as his (Mendoza's) first assayer.

Mexican numismatics has come a long, long way in a very short time preceding this study. Specifically, the aroused interest of American collectors in the coinage of our southern neighbor has grown so rapidly in the last twelve months as to create a noise much like "the shot heard round the world." Naturally, however, most of the interest has geared itself to the coins of Mexico that are most readily available to the eager collector. This series embodies the coins of the "republic" era from 1823 through the Revolutionary period, 1913-1917, and on towards the current series, 1918 to date.

Numismatic curiosity leads all collectors to the desire for the first coins of a series. The efforts to obtain the early (1536-1732) coinage of Mexico in any state of preservation worthy of the ordinary collectors album will prove a task for the most assiduous of numismatists. All coins are extremely hard to locate as well as to attribute properly, first due to their antiquity and then because of the crudity of shape and lack of design.

The Viceroyalty of Mexico was established by Hernando Cortez in 1519 following his capture and destruction of the principal city (Mexico City) of the Aztecs. Cortez had the city rebuilt in 1521. The natural resources of gold and silver in the area necessitated the establishment of a Mint where these elements could be melted, poured into bars, marked and sent back to the royalty.

Under the viceregal system established by Ferdinand and Isabella of Spain, Don Antonio de Mendoza was confirmed as Viceroy of Neuva Espana on April 17, 1535 by a royal cédula of Charles I and Johanna (La Loca), his mother. Mendoza was entrusted with the royal decree of May 11, 1535 to establish a Mint at Mexico City. The first coins to be issued under this edict were made in the home of Hernando Cortez.

Mendoza chose as his first ensayador Francisco Del Rincón who had preceded Mendoza to Mexico and was well trained in the art of die sinking and engraving with the use of punches. Rincón also knew the secret of alloying metals to produce the required fineness and purity necessary in the finished product. Rincón along with his brother Alonzo and his cousin bearing the same name, Francisco, were established in the Mint in the official capacities of ensayador (assayer), fundidor (foundryman) and capataz (foreman), respectively. Antón de Vides was selected by Mendoza as tallador (die sinker) for the first minting process.

Mexico real 1536-1538 obverse and reverse, Rincon assayer (Byrne collection)

The laws governing the minting of coins by the Viceroyalty Mints included articles which: 1, forbade more than one individual from any one family holding an official title in the Mint; 2, "that all coins minted in the dominions of the kingdom bear the señal (mark) of the assayer as a guarantee of the legality of its weight and fineness . . . and further, that, if any gold or silver coin is found of low fineness, said señal will serve to identify the person responsible, who shall be punished for his miscalculations . . ."; 3, that . . . "all coins of Viceroyalty Mints have two chief assayers (cédula of Ferdinand and Isabella, June 13, 1497) and whose initials of either the surname or given name of both ensayador and engraver be placed thereon . . ."; 4, "that all dies produced by the dominion Mints be registered . . ."

In each of the above instances irregularities did occur in the early days of the Mexican Mint (1536-1542). In conjunction with the appointments to the offices of ensayador, tallador and fundidor, these positions were "sold" by the royally appointed owners of these titles who in many instances were residents in Spain and not on the scene of operations. These owners leased their rights (for a fee) to a teniente (deputy) who in turn carried on the actual duties of the task so leased. The law required however . . . as above . . . "that the initial or señal of the ensayador actively carrying out the task be placed on the coins minted rather than the appointed owner who, as stated above, was, in most cases, inactive as a nonresident . . ."

The above edicts had their loopholes, however, and from the evidence at hand, Rincón and his relatives, Alonzo, Francisco and Gabriel, were able to undermine the proper functioning of the Mint in many respects so much so, in fact, that following Francisco's first two year term as assayer, the application for a renewal of his tenureship was refused. Between times the title or ownership of the office of ensayador has passed to Francisco de Loaysa.

The leasing of the titles of assayer and engraver to a resident worker at the Mint by the appointed owners was a common practice. Although only a single señal of the substitute would appear on the coins, it was not until 1732 that both initials of ensayador and engraver made their appearance.

Following the refusal of Viceroy Mendoza to approve a renewal of the lease to Francisco del Rincón as mint master, Pedro de Membrilla, the new owner, appointed Juan Gutierrez to the job at the Mexican Mint. Rincón's lease, issued to him by Francisco de Loaysa, was not approved by the Lord Viceroy of Neuva Espana (Mendoza). Rincón then, through political favoritism, filled the office of appointed treasurer of the mint and later, Feb. 11, 1542, as die sinker. On March 21, 1543, Rincón sought after and purchased the office of assayer from Pedro de la Membrilla. But Membrilla in September of the same year brought suit to recover ownership, stating that Rincón's "offer" for the office was illegally low and that the purchase had been consummated with fraud and deceit. Rincón was subsequently (December 5, 1544) sued by Membrilla and summoned to trial in Madrid for January 7, 1545. Rincón failed to appear, although he had been back and forth to Spain (evidently to secure political assistance from the Crown) on several occasions.

During the period, 1538-1543, an investigation of the Mexican Mint and its officials was instituted and carried out at the Tello de Sandoval hearings at which Mendoza reaffirmed that a searching of the records be reinstituted. This investigation proved that, contrary to law, members of the same family did hold official status as workers at the Mint, that Negroes hired as workers were, indeed, slaves of officials of the Mint and that certain irregularities had occurred in the proper registration of the dies used for coinage. (These dies were produced by a set of punches carrying the letters, design, symbols, numerals, etc., necessary to make the full die that subsequently was employed to strike the coins produced.)

Following Rincón's summons for trial and his failure either to show or be represented, we next hear of him in Chachapoyas, Peru, just a month following his summons to Spain. In December 1544, Francisco del Rincón was "settled" in the Viceroyalty of Peru. During his Mexican stint, Rincón, according to documentary evidence, had held the offices of ensayador (assayer), tallador (engraver), fundidor (foundryman), treasurer and die sinker of the Mexico City Mint. His name, however, did remain in Mexico as his cousin (another Francisco del Rincón) became assayer of the Mint in 1546, while Alonzo Rincón, the brother of the first Francisco was foundryman and die sinker. The second Francisco del Rincón had been foreman and foundryman and "inherited" his right to the office of tallador from Alonzo when the latter retired to Spain. Gabriel Rincón in Spain and of the same family owned the position of weigh master at the Mexican Mint in 1544-1545 but leased his title to Martin del Rincón who was actively working at the Mint. For the most part, the foundrymen, melters, cutters, haulers, etc., employed were Indians and Negro slaves who received subsistence pay.

This legendary figure of early American numismatics, never one to stand still, enlisted the aid of his political cohorts in Spain as well as his family ties with the Crown. We next find him in the records as mint master of the Lima Mint in Peru. Evidence of this is handed down to us by Adams, Guttag, Raymond and others in the first series of coins produced at the Lima Mint, 1568-1571. These coins show conclusively that the same style dies employed by Rincón at the Mexican Mint were used by him on the first coinage emanating from Lima.

The dies and punches used to produce the first Mexico City Mint coins have never been found, undoubtedly due to the assumption that Francisco del Rincón took these punches to produce the dies with him to Peru. The exactness and similarity of the first coinages from both Mints serve to emphasize this conjecture. The aforementioned irregularities at the Mexican Mint brought out by the hearings in which certain dies were not recorded nor could they be found adds stature to this claim. In addition, the design of the coins to be produced at the first Peruvian Mint was not changed (with exception of the Mint letter to "P") until the royal cédula of Phillip II, dated March 8, 1570. These dies did not reach Lima until early in 1572.

Upon the temporary cessation of operations at the Lima Mint in 1571 and, with no knowledge of its reopening, Rincón again "took to the road." Not given to long hauls, he stayed within the borders of the Viceroyalty of Peru and set up in the area of Potosí. There he became the first mint master of this Mint under the royal edict of Phillip II, March 3, 1574. The first coins from Potosí were issued in February, 1575 under the Viceroyalty of Francisco Toledo. Some 603,000 silver pieces were issued in the first year under the direction of Rincón. All these coins employed the design with the new shield on the obverse while the reverse bore the cross with castles and lions in the quadrants. The Mint letter used was a capital "P" as was the case with the earlier (1568-1571) mintage at Lima. Again these first issues bore the letter "R" for Rincón, the ensayador, and first "money maker" of the Americas . . . truly a legendary figure. When one considers the tremendous difficulties of merely existing and travelling, Rincón could also be rightfully tabbed "a travelling man."

From all known references available (listed in Bibliography) the following chart will show existing illustrations of Rincón coinage at the Mints of Mexico, Lima and Potosí. The numbers following each reference name indicates the number assigned by that author to the coin illustrated or to the location in the reference so cited.

It is with a deep sense of gratitude that the author expresses his thanks to the writers of the most excellent references listed herewith. Special mention, however, should go to Robert I. Nesmith, author of The Coinage of the First Mint of the Americas at Mexico City, 1536-1572, from which came the translation of the Royal decree establishing the Mint of Mexico, May 11, 1535, which was used extensively to document this article. This decree was originally published in Spanish by Jose Medina in his Moneda Coloniales Hispano-Americanas. Much of the detailed documentary evidences listed, however, were gleaned from the Nesmith work. In addition, the works of Burzio, Herrara, Medina, Wayte Raymond, Edgar H. Adams (Guttag catalog), the rare four-volume set of the Vidral Quadras, the excellent work of Alberto F. Pradeau, and the fine plates in the Humberto Burzio Diccionario de la Moneda Hispano-Americanas, the Catalogo de los Reales de a Ocho Espanoles by Jose Yriarte and the various sale catalogs of Jacques and Hans Schulman, Henry Christensen (Cristobal-sale), Wayte Raymond and others did much to lend "authenticity" to this treatise.

For the good of numismatics and the A.N.A.

THINK

Recently a cartoon pictured an employe dropping a note in the suggestion box. What was his message? One word – "Think."

The American Numismatic Association is in a critical period of its history. With the phenomenal expansion of the last ten years, your Association has nearly quadrupled in size. Everything the A.N.A. does is on a bigger scale. Its problems and those of its members have multiplied. Solutions become more vital with the responsibilities of each new member.

To cope with the national and, yes, world wide activities of your A.N.A. demands officers and governors of the very highest competence and abilities. The Association has been fortunate enough to have had them in the past. Let us keep it so by choosing with care the men we nominate this Spring and those we elect this Summer.

In a single word – "Think." – ELSTON G. BRADFIELD.

A SNAKE BREEDS A ST. PATRICK FARTHING

By

Eric P. Newman

THE LEGEND that St. Patrick drove the snakes out of Ireland, as detailed on St. Patrick coins, may not be true, but it seems that one of the snakes has recently had its revenge by giving birth to a "new variety" of St. Patrick farthing. Since St. Patrick coins are collected in America as currency introduced by Mark Newby into Colonial New Jersey in 1682, it is necessary to determine if this "new variety" is venomous or if it has merely been hibernating for almost three hundred years.

Two specimens of this hitherto unknown St. Patrick farthing struck in silver have come to my attention. Both appeared separately in 1962 in England and were promptly purchased and brought to America. However, their close association with the recently described forgeries of the Oak Tree shilling (Fabrication OD)[1] is provocative. One silver St. Patrick piece was acquired directly from a small English dealer in a group of coins containing two forged Oak Tree shillings and no other Massachusetts silver. The other was offered for sale in a group of virtually worthless coppers by a part time dealer visiting his customer in a London hotel room. The same customer was soon thereafter offered through the mail from England a forged Oak Tree shilling. The St. Patrick farthings were both sold as genuine and priced accordingly.

An innocent purchase of a forgery is understandable and this has happened to many. The question which is difficult to answer is why some are willing to buy fakes knowing that they are buying questionable coins. In the Glendining sale of October 31, 1962, Lot 313 was described as follows: "U.S.A. Massachusetts, Oak Tree shilling, 1652 (this piece is from unrecorded dies and may be a fabrication). Very fine." In spite of this warning this piece was not withdrawn but was sold at auction for £12 which is far below its value as a genuine piece and far above its virtual worthlessness as a fake. Other specimens of the Oak Tree shilling forgery were readily sold for similar prices to Americans even with a disclosure of their questionability.

Are some enthusiasts so naive as to think that they can buy a piece from unpublished dies from a numismatically experienced person for a fraction of the normal market value? Do they believe that such a seller is so inept as to part with what he knows is an unrecorded type without inquiring of someone who might clear up the matter? Do they believe that even if the coin is a fake it will have value as such? Strangely enough the answer to each question often seems to be in the affirmative. By buying fakes at any price more forgery is being encouraged.

Is the St. Patrick Farthing American?

Before discussing the "new variety" it is well to analyze how the St. Patrick farthing became a part of the American series and if it really belongs there. In 1858 Hickcox omitted any mention of St. Patrick pieces. In 1859 Dickeson only mentioned the use of St. Patrick halfpence in Colonial Jersey (p. 113), but made no reference to farthings. In 1875 Crosby's chapter on the subject was entitled "The St. Patrick or Mark Newby Halfpence," but he did not undertake to distinguish as to denomination between the large and the small St. Patrick pieces because of his uncertainty as to the history of or the reason for their original Irish use.[2]

Jonathan Swift, in his third Draper's letter dated August 25, 1724, had left confusion whether both sizes were considered halfpence when in comparing 1722-24 Wood's halfpence (120 grains) to 1680 Irish halfpence (110 grains) he said: "And the great St. Patrick's half penny is yet larger than either." Swift's customary style in a tirade is full of redundancy and he was obviously referring only to the great St. Patrick piece as the halfpenny rather than indicating that coins of both sizes were halfpence.

Authors which Crosby quoted merely speculated about the coins. By 1899 when Herbert A. Grueber's Handbook of the Coins of Great Britain and Ireland in the British Museum appeared, it was known that the large St. Patrick piece (142-48 grains) was a halfpenny, that the small St. Patrick piece (77-105 grains) was a farthing, and that both had been circulating in the Isle of Man in 1678 and 1679 before they were specifically demonetized by an Act of the Tynwald on June 24, 1679. Every subsequent American catalog has included both the halfpenny and farthing as part of the early American series apparently because Crosby mentioned both sizes, but without considering what Crosby would have done if he had known the facts discovered after the publication of his book. A re-analysis is therefore in order.

In West Jersey on May 3, 1681, and prior to the arrival of Mark Newby, the Court, in settling the rates at which official English coins would circulate in Burlington ordered that "King's copper farthing" should pass for one halfpence in local currency and correspondingly the King's halfpenny should pass for a penny.[3] English silver was to pass in local exchange at one and a half times English standard. English copper coins were therefore acceptable at a higher rate than English silver, in spite of the former's lack of intrinsic value. At the first session of the West Jersey General Free Assembly which began November 21, 1681, the current pay value of all English coins in West Jersey was set at one and a half times their English standard, thus correcting the inequity in the earlier order relating to Burlington.

When Mark Newby migrated from Dublin, Ireland, to the Camden, New Jersey, area in November, 1681, he apparently had St. Patrick coppers with him because by May 8, 1682, he convinced the General Free Assembly of West Jersey to pass the following well known Act:

> "That Mark Newbie's half-pence, called Patricks half-pence, shall, from and after the said eighteenth instant pass for half-pence current pay of this Province, provided he the said Mark, give sufficient security to the Speakers of this House, for the use of the General Assembly from Time to Time, being, that he the said Mark, his Executors and Administrators, shall and will change the said half-pence for pay Equivalent, upon demand: and provided also, that no Person or Persons be hereby obligated to take more than five Shillings in one Payment."

The specific wording of the May 8, 1682, Act used "half-pence" four times and does not make any reference to farthings or to other coins to circulate in proportion. The fact that a tract of realty had to be pledged to secure redemption at any time shows that even the large coppers were over-valued.

[3]Francis B. Lee, "The Colonial Jersey Coinage from an Historical Standpoint," American Numismatic and Archaeological Society of New York Proceedings and Papers (New York, 1893), p. 32.

For people who had specifically regulated English halfpence (175 grains) and farthings (87½ grains) one year before, it is inconceivable that the Act was regulating two sizes of St. Patrick coins. The Act definitely would have mentioned the St. Patrick farthing if it was to be given legal tender status. The November 21, 1681, law relating to the local value of English coinage was repealed on May 18, 1682, eliminating any conflict between St. Patrick halfpence and English copper coin.

Mark Newby must have put at least 14,400 St. Patrick halfpence into circulation in West Jersey because when he died in 1683 there were claims against his estate in the amount of £30 for the coppers.[4] The archaeological evidence also supports the conclusion that only St. Patrick halfpence were circulated in Jersey. It was reliably stated in 1845 "Newby lived on the farm in Newton since owned by Jos. B. Cooper, Esq., where many of the Patrick halfpence have been ploughed up."[5] I know of no find of any St. Patrick farthings in the area.

The above facts lead to the conclusion that only St. Patrick halfpence are Mark Newby coins belonging in the American series and that St. Patrick farthings have no legal or actual basis for being considered in the American series. The big Irish brother left home and established himself with legal tender status in West Jersey. The little Irish brother stayed home. The big brother is Irish-American and the little brother is just Irish. This distinction seems appropriate because the "new variety" is a farthing with really no American significance.

The "New Variety"

In examining the lettering on the "new variety" some very unusual observations can be made. The word QVIESCAT is in thin letters compared to PLEBS in thicker letters; likewise, the word REX is in thin letters compared to FLOREAT in thicker letters. This is strange and unnatural.

The letter E appears four times, each one differing from the others. The letter S appears twice on the St. Patrick side, each having a different shape from the other. The letter R appears twice on the King David side, each having a different shape. An examination of normal farthings shows that letter punches were used to cut the basic lettering into the dies and this procedure would not produce fundamental variances in the shape of the same letters. This leads to the conclusion that the "new variety" was produced from dies in which all letters were hand cut and not punched. This is abnormal.

A strange characteristic of the coin in question is the placement of three jewels on the lower inside portion of the large crown. In an examination of many varieties of farthings it can be noticed that this area was routinely hatched in to resemble a velvet lining. Jewels in the wrong place are inexplicable except if a copyist had to improvise without having a clear specimen to work with.

The only two published listings of die varieties of St. Patrick farthings[6] are listings of punctuation only and do not include the punctuation QVIESCAT:PLEBS. found on the "new variety." They do include the punctuation FLOREAT :REX: but not for a type struck in silver. Unfortunately the second listing of farthing varieties is only an unimproved copy of the Crosby list. An expanded die variety list has been worked on by Walter Breen, but it is not far enough along and photographs of varieties are lacking. Neither die of the "new variety" is known.

In the "new variety" the first animal below St. Patrick's outstretched hand looks like a jet age double swept-back wing aircraft rather than a bird or insect. The direction it is going is anyone's guess. This error was apparently due to copying an unclear copper specimen.

One specimen of the "new variety" in silver weighs 110½ grains and the other 80½ grains, an enormous differential. Previously known genuine St. Patrick farthings in silver weigh from 107 to 123 grains so the range indicates that the silver pieces are more of a pattern than an issue for circulation. The specific gravity of the new specimens is normal, the first specimen being 9.6 and the second specimen 10.1. If the King David side is the obverse with the top of the crown pointing upward, then, after rotation on a vertical axis, the reverse on both pieces is about ten degrees clockwise. It would therefore appear that the two new specimens were struck during the same die setup. The offset is greater than any other genuine specimen examined.

Each specimen of the "new variety" differs on the edge. The first specimen has its edge notched to resemble reeding in a very crude manner. The notches are unevenly spaced, nonuniform in depth, and nonuniform in width, all obviously filed and cut in by hand. The second specimen has no edge milling at all, the edge being partly round, partly pointed, and partly squared off.

Every other copper and silver St. Patrick farthing examined (about a hundred) shows indented, vertical, and uniform edge milling or engrailing spaced about 1/32nd inches apart. Milling on all genuine pieces is also confirmed by Crosby's findings. The milling could only be accomplished by the planchets being squeezed and rolled between fixed and movable bars in a milling machine used in Engand as early as 1662 and known today as the Castaing machine because of improvements to it worked out in 1685 by the French engineer, Castaing.[7]

Both specimens of the "new variety" are therefore lacking in proper edge treatment and in one specimen improper edge treatment is used. This is in the writer's opinion sufficient evidence to diagnose the "new variety" as a modern forgery. While other discrepancies give rise to justified challenge and suspicion, the failure of the forger to use a machine for edge milling after his tedious and skillful die cutting of the surfaces was a trifle he did not count on as being material. The close association of the date of appearance and in the distribution sources of both the forged Oak Tree shilling and the "new" St. Patrick farthing in silver, provides very strong circumstantial evidence of an identical forger. Perhaps he has made other types of coins.

In trying to combat counterfeiting of paper money in Colonial America it was often considered dangerous to point out defects in the counterfeits because the counterfeiter would promptly correct them. In the case of the St. Patrick farthing in silver it will serve no purpose for the forger to follow this lead and be a "die hard" as his "hardened dies" are now known.

Through the coöperation and kindness of Richard Picker of New York, Edmund J. Vaskas of Worcester, Mass., Walter Breen of Berkeley, Calif., David F. Spink of London, and Dr. Henry Fattel of North Bergen, N. J., the specimens of and the information about the St. Patrick forgery have been made available to me for study. I am most appreciative.

Oak Tree Shilling Forgeries: Comment and Rejoinder

Comment

Electrotype copies of coins as we all know, are one of the biggest snags to collecting rare coins, but they are by and large, a legacy left over from the Nineteenth Century. We must live with them if only because they provide interesting material that would be otherwise unobtainable.

We should be prepared to meet up with them at all stages of coin collecting, but more especially when we collect ancient coins, such as Roman and Greek silver and bronze coins, which seem to have been the pet subject of the bygone coin imitator. Perhaps the few remarks that follow may help to put them in their true light.

As it was my misfortune or otherwise to purchase the three Oak Tree shillings of Massachusetts, dated 1652, that appeared in England in April, 1962, and were the subject of an article by Eric P. Newman, in the February, 1963 Numismatist, I think it only right that a reply should be given here on this subject in general.

No one wishes to buy a very rare coin (and these Oak Tree coins are rare beyond any doubt), but if an electro is offered as such, then surely it is up to the conscience of the collector concerned whether he or she wishes to have such a copy in his or her collection. That all such copies should be made "illegal," however, does not get us over the hurdle that many thousands of them exist today, fortunately not in the American series, but most specifically in coins of the earliest times. Now why were these made? Just for profit, for fun? To deceive innocent collectors and others into thinking that they had a very rare coin at a very low price? You can answer "Yes" to all of these questions.

I would say that beyond question no reputable dealer (or collector for that matter), particularly wishes to display, or offer to sell, any copy of any coin; but such do turn up from time to time in old collections and many such pieces can be extremely interesting. Not all electros were made to deceive the unwary, many copies of rare coins having been made simply because there are not enough of the originals to go round to meet the demands of both students and numismatists everywhere. Who, for example, would refuse a copy of the very rare British Columbia ten or twenty dollar pieces of 1862 if they were offered? Again, the very rare Oxford crown of Charles I of England was copied, and it is a most beautiful copy too, because the demand for this piece was great and there was no other way possible to find a specimen for purposes of study. When examples of these rare coins turn up in the salesrooms the demand for them is there alright, not simply because it is an example of a rare coin, although this is quite sufficient as it it but because it really is a most beautiful work of art. We have all heard of the dekadrachms of Syracuse, many say that this is the world's most beautiful coin, but can we ever hope to own an original? Copies have been made in the past century to "fill the gap" and it is my belief that they do serve a useful purpose.

Fortunately experts in their own particular field are able to recognize false coins either by comparison with the genuine or by their special knowledge of a series. The British Museum keeps many hundred false coins for this very reason of comparison, and well known copies have been the subject of many books and articles.

It surely boils down to this: if a rare coin is offered at a very low figure, then its authenticity should be doubted, and the coin should be checked for its genuineness. These copies are not so difficult to distinguish, and I must say here that the "Oak Tree" shillings were recognized instantly for what they were. Anyone who has ever handled a genuine Massachusetts coin could tell the difference; luckily three were offered to me at the same time, and it did not take long to see that all three came from the same pair of dies. Although they were struck differently, they all came as copies from one coin.

It should be borne in mind that what is good is bound to have imitations. This applies to coins as to anything else. Becker the Forger began by making copies of ancient coins for museums, but they were so perfect that he found collectors gladly bought them. To this day a Becker forgery is a distinctive one, and not without great artistic merit. He confined his activities to the Greek and Roman period, and a book entitled Becker the Forger gives an accurate account of his works. He used to put his coins in a box attached to the wheel of his coach, so that after a number of journeys the specimens he made had the appearance of having circulated. But nothing can alter the fact that a genuine ancient coin not only shows its age, by cracks and wear on the edge of the coin, but does not have that "smooth" feel of an electro.

I do not believe that these copies are being made today, because the knowledge of coins has never been greater, nor would the demand for such be great enough to warrant the manufacture of such items.

Many a good collector has turned away from numismatics when he has found that a coin that was thought to have been genuine turned out to be a copy. This is to be much deplored and regretted, but stalwart collectors will meet these fakes for what they are – a challenge to their own knowledge and experience, plus the right to learn more about them, how they came to be made, where and when, and for what purpose.

If you are going to buy an electro then you should pay only a very small price for it, and be honest with ourself; mark it in your collection as a copy, then you not only do not deceive yourself, but others too will be interested for what it is. Remember, too, that you should not buy a coin like this in the hopes that it will eventually turn out to be genuine, you will more often than not be disappointed.

Learn if you can by the failings of others by their mistakes – not yours, spread knowledge of all fakes, exhibit them as examples of the doubtful ingenuity of man, show them for what they are, and draw your own conclusions as to whether they are worth collecting or not. It is one of the fundamental "arts" of collecting anything that you should not run down another fellows' collecting habits, but please let him decide whether he wants to include fakes and imitations in his collection. When he has greater experience he will know the answer to this. Try to guide those who do not know of copies by showing them the original plus the copy. Far better this than being out of pocket by making a purchase without having the added asset of knowing that copies exist. – GORDON WHITE

Rejoinder

I respect Gordon White for voluntarily identifying himself as the seller of three of the five Oak Tree shilling forgeries mentioned in my article in the February, 1963 Numismatist as I avoided using his name in the article. I did state, however, that he had concluded that the pieces were not genuine and sold them as electrotypes. It was also pointed out that they were struck copies from forged dies and not electrotypes as he still seems to believe. It is necessary for electrotypes to be made from pre-existing coins. Regardless of what kind of fakes these are, they were an unknown variety prior to 1962.

Mr. White's statement that "no one wishes to buy a very rare coin" (he classifies an Oak Tree shilling as such) is subject to challenge, particularly in America. In my opinion his statement undermines his entire thesis.

Let Mr. White find the diemaker of the Oak Tree shilling forgery and ask him what his motives were. – ERIC P. NEWMAN

Book Reviews

Coinage of Cilician Armenia by Paul Z. Bedoukian, 1962, Numismatic Notes and Monographs, No. 147, American Numismatic Society, New York, 494 pages, 48 plates.

For years the coinages of the Cilician Armenian kings have been frustrating the collectors of the Byzantine and "Crusader" medieval issues, not to mention those individuals who have had a primary interest in this fascinating group of coins. In the past, there has not been readily available a single book of any scope on this series. This has been unfortunate since the coins are not rare and are frequently found in medieval Near East lots. This has been especially irritating since the close relationship between this series and those of the concurrent Byzantine Empire and the "Crusader" issues of Antioch and Cyprus have made Cilician Armenia a natural sources of interest to those in these fields.

In general, it is not difficult to attribute a coin to Cilician Armenia, since the coins are very much alike (a figure of the king usually seated, on the obverse face, and assorted lions on the reverse). The problem is to make an exact attribution to ruler, which is additionally difficult since the legends are in the Armenian alphabet. Now, at long last, a text is available in English and the trams, the half trams, the takvorins, the tanks, the poghs issued by the Roupenian dynasty (1080-1375 A.D.) can finally be assigned with accuracy to their respective kings.

The author includes in his work an excellent review of the literature, a detailed discussion of the alphabet, historical data, metrology, information of the types and inscriptions (including a legend index) and the catalog listing 2249 different coins. Hundreds of the latter are depicted in the 48 plates, and the text contains large numbers of line drawings clarifying types. A series of statistical tables do much to increase the value of the text. The reviewer, lacking serious knowledge of the series, cannot make critical comments but, using the monograph, he has been able with ease to attribute correctly the various Cilician Armenian coins in his cabinet. There is no question that this monograph is a signal contribution to numismatic science, and it will stand as the ultimate authority in its field for years. "Bedoukian" is now the standard reference for Cilician Armenian coinages. – J. F. LHOTKA, JR.

A Bronze Hoard of the Period of Zeno I* by Howard L. Adelson and George L. Kustas, 1962, Numismatic Notes and Monograph No. 148, American Numismatic Society, New York, 89 pages, one plate.

This monograph is the second in an ANS series describing Fifth Century hoards, in this case a lot of 2231 bronze pieces purchased in the 1920s at Volo in Thessaly. The coins, for the most part, AE 3 and AE 4, cover the period from Constantinian emperors up to the reign of Zeno. The bulk of them are of the Fifth Century East Roman rulers.

The text includes an excellent descriptive analysis (one of the best short discussions on early Byzantine coinage the reviewer has read in some time), excellent metrological data, and, naturally, the catalog. The information on mints (especially the comments on the mint mark "KOC") and the comprehensive handling of the monograms commonly used on these coins alone make the book worthwhile. The 1064 coins of the hoard which could be identified are listed with their types and inscriptions. This monograph does much to help fill the void that exists in available numismatic literature on the early Byzantine bronze coinage prior to the reforms of Anastasius in the last years of the Fifth Century A.D. – J. F. LHOTKA, JR.

Commemorative Trade Tokens Illegal?

In view of the Treasury Department's interpretation of Public Law 87-667, an amendment to Sec. 491, Title 18, U. S. Code, the use of tokens or anything else similar to money is forbidden. The Treasury considers commemorative tokens "good for so much in trade" a form of currency substitute and subject to seizure.

C.N.A. Convention Week After A.N.A. in Denver

For the first time in the life of the Canadian Numismatic Association, its annual convention will be on Canada's Pacific coast. The Hotel Vancouver in Vancouver, British Columbia, has been picked as the site by the Vancouver Numismatic Society, host club. General Chairman Leslie D. Copan has set August 15-17 as the dates so that convention minded numismatists, collectors, and their families can attend both the A.N.A. convention in Denver and that in Vancouver the following week. There's plenty of time to drive between the two cities, and the opportunity to take the family to Western Canada is something that should be given serious consideration. Remember that the U. S. dollar is worth a dollar and eight cents in Canada, and those eight Canadian "coppers" might be just the ones you need for your collection.

Display Chairman Robert Eveleigh has arranged for thirteen display categories to give scope for all exhibitors. Bourse Chairman Don Birnie has many reservations from dealers on both sides of the border. Martin Stuart is prepared to send receipts for the five dollar registration fee, and Dorothy MacKenzie is ready to assist you with accommodations.

For any information about the 1963 convention of Canadian Numismatic Association, write to Vancouver Numismatic Society, P. O. Box 2467, Vancouver 3, B. C., Canada.

Hawaii Invites You

The Coin Clubs of Hawaii will be hosts to the Hawaii numismatic convention November 22-24 at the Princess Kaiulani Hotel in the heart of fabulous Waikiki. Features of the convention will be many unusual noncompetitive exhibits, including the world's finest collection of Hawaiiana formed by the Ostheimers of Philadelphia, the original drawings and Wedgewood plaque from which the 1928 Captain Cook half dollar was designed and the first sand-blast proof struck, now in the collection of Robert E. Van Dyke of Honolulu, and the famed J. V. McDermott 1913 Liberty Head "nickel." The Hawaii State Archives will make a special convention display of the original dies used to strike the five 1883 coins of King Kalakaua, a complete set of the very rare 1895 Republic of Hawaii currency, and the Hawaiian Royal Orders found in the chancelry when the monarchy was overthrown in 1893.

The Princess Kaiulani Hotel was selected for having the finest facilities available in the Islands. While rates are very reasonable, Chairman Gordon Metcalf advises all who expect to attend to make room reservations through the Committee in order that they may realize a 25 per cent reduction in regular rates. Make reservations early to obtain accommodations of your choice.

With outstanding displays, choice auction material by Oceania Coin Company of Honolulu, wide selections of coins at the bourse tables, and entertainment for the whole family, this will be a numismatic vacation in the "Paradise of the Pacific." For reservations, display, bourse or auction information, write to Hawaii Numismatic Convention, Room 7, 280 Lewers St., Honolulu 15, Hawaii.

Racine Numismatic Society Invites You to Attend N.O.W.

The 1963 convention of the Numismatists of Wisconsin will be held at Racine on May 10-12, with the twenty-five year old Racine Numismatic Society as host. All activities will be in the beautiful Holleb House Motel. Those planning to attend are urged to write Chairman Paul L. Albreo, 1831 St. Clair St., Racine, Wis., for advance room reservations. Also, a limited number of tickets for the Sunday evening banquet may be reserved through him at $4.00 each.

Feature attractions will be competitive and special exhibits, a bourse which has been sold out for sometime, a coin clinic and an educational program, and a tour of the Whitman Publishing Company plant, the latter being worth a trip in itself to Racine.

Those wishing exhibit space should notify William Spencer, 1524 Oregon St., Racine, as to the number of cases to be reserved, and must set up by 10 a.m. Saturday to be eligible for competitive awards. R. A. Miller has assembled a fine variety of auction items, including such rarities as a Moffat and Co. 1849 $5 gold piece, an 1880 proof trade dollar, many proof coins from cents to dollars, paper money, a 1793 chain cent, 1936 proof set, etc.

When you read this, the N.O.W. convention will be only ten days away. Plan to attend — we believe you will be glad you did.

Passes Milestone

The Society of Paper Money Collectors accepted its 500th application for membership on March 1. Organized in the latter part of 1961, the Society has enjoyed a remarkable growth, no doubt reflecting the general expansion in numismatics and particularly an increasing interest in paper money. While most of its members reside in the United States and Canada, it has world wide representation.

The Society is affiliated with the American Numismatic Association and holds its annual meeting at the A.N.A. convention. It publishes the quarterly magazine Paper Money for its members. convention of Indiana State Numismatic Association on May 17-19 in the Ball State College Student Center. At least one member of the Committee expressed the belief that this is the best convention site in the State. It has large, well lighted bourse, exhibit and auction rooms, several lounges and dining rooms and a recreation area. Hotel Roberts, Holiday Inn Motel and Travel-Lodge Motel are nearby. Advance room reservations should be made.

The convention medal is available in bronze at $1 and in silver at $7.50 and, as illustrated, depicts a Chief of the Munsee Indians from which Muncie takes its name. Its reverse continues the Civil War Centennial theme used on the 1961 and 1962 convention medals. Those not expecting to attend may obtain medals from Robert E. Wilson, 2310 N. New York Ave., Munice, Ind., by sending proper remittance to him.

Adult exhibitors may enter in one or more of ten classes and juniors in three separate classes, with trophies for winners in each and best-in-show trophies for both senior and junior groups. Darrell Miller, 322 S. Martin St., Muncie, promises several rare items in noncompetitive exhibits also. The fifty-two bourse tables were subscribed for some time ago. Charles "Shotgun" Slade will conduct the auction, Rear Admiral O. H. Dodson (USN Ret.), Director of the Money Museum of the National Bank of Detroit, will be speaker at the Saturday evening banquet.

Dear Mr. Drewing

Greatly enjoyed your two articles on "The Wood Burners." May I call your attention to the two following references on cordwood tokens:

The Numismatist 1905 volume, pages 156 and 177. The cut on page 156 is obviously your number 1 with engine number 48 incuse. The token described on page 177 is your number 2 (or 2A, no cut shown) but with the number 61 incuse. I believe this is a new engine for your listing.

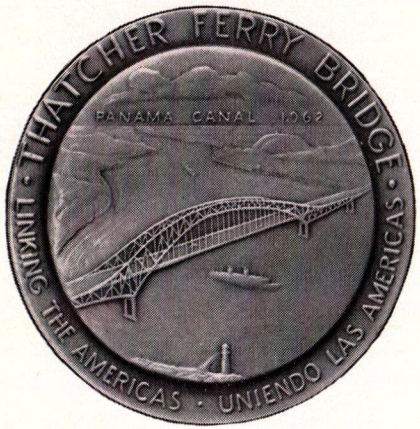
Panama Medal

The Panama Canal Co., recently issued a bronze medallion to commemorate the opening of the Thatcher

Ferry bridge. Sculptor was John R. Terken. Striking was done by the Medallic Art Co., of New York City.



Obverse of the medal.

The bronze piece, size 40, was distributed to guests at the opening day ceremonies last October. A large quantity of aluminum specimens, size 24, was made for distribution to the general public; a few were sold by retail stores of the Canal Administration.

The bridge is a three span, arch-truss type with a length of 5425 feet in fourteen spans. The longest span is 1,128 feet; height above the water is 201 feet. It has a forty-two-foot roadway with four traffic lanes, and accommodated more than ten thousand cars on the day of dedication.

Some Thoughts on Mail Bid Sales

Let me say at the start that I am not a coin speculator, or rather the kinder term, coin investor. I started collecting about twelve years ago at the time of a somewhat early retirement from business. My interests, all foreign, have been in the $5 to $200 class, silver and gold. Fly speck variations do not interest me; if there are a few pieces of a certain issue with the right barb of the third arrow in the talon of an eagle missing, that is all right with me. If the small changes are significant, like the maple leaf in the 1947 Canadian dollar, that is different.

Most of my purchases have been by mail bid at auctions of reputable dealers. On the whole the purchases have been satisfactory. Often the grading is on the optimistic side, but one learns to use a little salt in considering the bid price. Several times coins have been mis-designated, but that is a very understandable error in such a mass of detail.

In the last few years I have become increasingly puzzled by some developments in the auction procedure. Descriptions, for instance. Salesmanship is understandable, the restaurant people know that. Who wants "Spinach – 20¢" when they can get the same thing as "Fresh Green Buttered Garden Spinach – 30¢"? In the coin fields, if there is a more or less common piece that you need and you find it listed as "Ruratania, 10 whatsits, 1920, EF; $10," you make a bid and hope for the best. In a valuable coin a more precise statement of condition is expected. But what of the super-salesmanship that lists this as (bold face center cutline) "A Ruratania Rarity," "Ruratania, 10 whatsits, 1920. Originally uncirculated. The rare type with two sides. Much desired and used by the natives. Getting scarce. Should bring $20."

Then there has developed what might be called the permissive markup. A few years ago there started appearing on the bottom of the bid sheet a little block "You may increase my bids 10% if necessary." This did not seem dangerous so I did just that several times, generally getting the coins at the 10% advance. Now the permissive markup has increased to 100%.

Just how does this work? If I am willing to pay $20 for a coin, do I bid $20, no markup, or do I bid $10 with 100% markup? I wish someone in charge of auctions would explain this to me in mathematics of not more than college grade. I have been led to believe in the past that if I am foolish enough to bid $20 for a coin and the highest floor or mail bid is $10, that I am awarded the coin at some price in between. I have, of course, no way to verify this.

I have just recently had another puzzle. I made a mail bid to a reputable dealer of $255 for a certain coin; I was unsuccessful. It is beside the point that a little later I was offered the same coin, same grade but stated as more choice, for $350. When I received the prices realized list on the auction, I found the coin on which I bid $255 was sold for $250. Two requests for an explanation have been unanswered. This has hardly increased my confidence in these auctions.

I shall keep my collection; I shall even add to it from time to time. But in doing so I shall be very wary of the honeyed word, the fast talker and the mathematics of the auction. — PUZZLED COLLECTOR

1963 A.N.A. CONVENTION MEDAL

Pictured is the model of the seventy-second annual convention of the A.N.A. medal (1⅝" diameter) to be held in Denver, Colo., August 7th through 10th. The obverse is fashioned after the Clark Gruber and Company ten (and twenty) dollar gold piece dated 1860, showing Pikes Peak. The reverse highlights the A.N.A. symbol. The two smaller coins shown on the medal are undated coins minted in Colorado in 1861. That on the left was minted by the John Parsons and Company; the coin on the right, by the J. J. Conway and Company. The larger octagon shaped coin (obverse and reverse shown) is a Lesher Referendum dollar minted at Victor, Colorado in 1900 and 1901. The "Rocky Mountain Rendezvous" theme for the Denver convention is based on the historic yearly meetings of fur trappers in the western states.

The bronze medal will be part of the badge given to all those registering at the convention. A set of these medals, silver and bronze, packaged in a plastic holder, serially numbered, limited in quantity, will be available for purchase. The medal is being struck by the Medallic Art Company.

NATIONAL COIN WEEK

National Coin Week, April 27-May 4, has every indication of being the best yet. Now comes the job of preparing your award entry.

Before compiling the reports to accompany the entry, be sure to read the instructions carefully and see that you have included all activities that might have some point value. Attention is directed to the point value awarded for the character of the report. The better the entry is organized and submitted the easier it is for the judging committee.

Please include in your report the names of all participants along with all other activities, such as newspaper clippings, photos, radio and television scripts, etc. Photographs should be glossy prints as some of the winners may be selected for publication in The Numismatist.

Every club is requested to enter a report. If you do not wish to prepare a scrapbook to compete for the A.N.A. awards, simply fill out the official entry blank in order that we may know what clubs took part in this activity. Also any individual who made an independent exhibit.

Mail all entries to:

R. W. Shannon, Awards Chairman
1304 Symons
Richland, Wash.

The reports must be received by the judging committee not later than May 25, 1963. Your entries will be returned by requesting that they be returned on the entry blank.

Award winning entries will be placed on exhibit at the A.N.A. convention in Denver August 7 to 10. Award winners will be notified, and a complete list of winners will be published in The Numismatist. — Jack R. Koch, Gen. Chairman, National Coin Week

Coin Find Reveals Pioneer Money Usages

Many tales have been told of pirate treasure recovered from Spanish galleons in the briny deep. Volumes have been written about lost gold mines, buried treasure and ancient coin hoards. Gold and silver finds have been common but little significance has been attached to these discoveries. The lost treasure at Donner Lake was very revealing in its content since the coins may be accorded a place among the circulating media of the early settlements of the western United States.

Donner Lake lies peacefully at the foot of Donner Pass in the Sierra Nevada Mountains. As one crosses the Sierras today in a plane with an occasional bump or speeds across in a car with only slight delays from a snowstorm, it seems almost fantastic to imagine the plight of the pioneers who struggled across in 1846-47.

The Donner party was made up of family groups from Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Ohio and Tennessee, and some German immigrants. Women, children and even babies were included in the wagon train. Originating at Springfield, Ill., they had assembled in Independence, Mo., the starting point of many emigrant trains.

The journey to Great Salt Lake was very slow and laborious. They chose to proceed via the almost nonexistent Hastings Cutoff presuming to save three hundred miles on the journey to California. Much valuable time was lost in reaching Great Salt Lake, beyond which they chose the southerly route taking them south of the Lake and across sandy sinks where they almost perished.

The summer passed. Long lines of geese began their southward journey. The pioneers and their oxen were exhausted and the provisions were nearly consumed. By the time they reached Donner Lake some had perished. Wagons and supplies had been stolen, consumed or lost along the way.

They encamped for the winter at the Lake as they were unable to proceed across the high Sierras. Their disaster is history. Forty-two perished and forty-eight survived.

Forty-four years later, in 1891, Edward Reynolds, a miner from Sierra Valley, went prospecting while other members of his party fished. Reynolds found some pieces of money lying in plain sight on the ground. He picked up ten old dollar-sized coins. Then he scratched in the earth and uncovered a large quantity of silver pieces. He covered the money over again and returned to his party.

After driving the other members back to Truckee, Reynolds and a friend, Lane, returned to the Lake area with picks, shovels and sacks. They began to search. Before nightfall they had dug up a hat full of silver valued at $146.00 (dollar sized pieces). It is interesting to note that no coin was dated later than 1845.

The treasure had been carried in the wagon of Mrs. Graves. The coins were placed in auger holes bored in the under sides of cleats that were nailed upon the floor of the wagon. When the camp was abandoned in their effort to reach California Mrs. Graves buried the coins.

French dollar with Louis Phillippe portrait.

Adams in Private Gold Coinage of California 1849-55 states that gold and silver coins of all nationalities and denominations began to flow toward California. There were Spanish and Mexican dollars or ounces, with their fractions, dollars of Peru, Ecuador and Bolivia, nearly all above par. The French 5 franc pieces, worth 93¢, also passed for one dollar. For fractional currency, all kinds of minor silver coins were accepted such as Spanish pesetas, French francs and Austrian zwanzigers, all passing for "two bits" or twenty-five cents.

There is little doubt that the money was hidden by Mrs. Graves since none of the coins bear dates beyond 1845. Besides, witnesses testified that she remained behind purposely to hide the money.

The crown or dollar-size pieces were undoubtedly in circulation in the Midwest at the time of departure of the train. Spanish pieces were legal tender in the U. S. until 1857, at which time over $2,000,000 worth of Mexican money was in circulation in the U. S.

From the coin find from the Donner party tragedy, the conclusion is that a cache of pioneer money was found, proving the definite relationship of these coins to the circulating medium in the U. S. in the era of development of the West. — PHILIP W. WHITELEY, A.N.A. No. 7406

SO-CALLED CELLULOID BUTTON OR PINBACK BADGES

Although at times, worn alone, these celluloid buttons or pinbacks were generally used as badges for various Special Days by clamping a piece of colored ribbon below them, usually printed with the name and date of the particular day they represented. The demand for designation of these Special Days frequently led to a dozen or more of them on the same date.

CHASE MANHATTAN MONEY MUSEUM RE-OPENS

The Chase Manhattan Bank Money Museum in Rockefeller Center recently re-opened its doors after being closed for seven months during extensive remodeling. About 5,000 items from the bank's collection of 75,000 specimens of money from every period in history are now on display in the museum at 1254 Avenue of the Americas.

"Included in the displays," said Curator Vernon L. Brown, "are money trees, a 28 x 12 inch check for $1 written in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., during the depression and endorsed by 62 people, a check for $8,500,000 used to purchase the present site of the United Nations, and what is among the smallest of all small change ever used – a gold coin about the size of a large pin head from Nuremberg." Other exhibits show the evolution of paper money in the United States from Continental currency of 1775 to a modern $10,000 Federal Reserve note of the United States.

The museum has two galleries – one for special exhibits and the other for the permanent collection. The displays are housed in seventeen alcoves. Coins are mounted in such a manner that they give the impression of floating against a deep green velvet background. The museum occupies about 2,600 square feet, including an office and a library.

Drexler & Henshell Associates designed the museum. Arthur Drexler, a partner in the firm, is director of the architecture and design department of the Museum of Modern Art.

The museum is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday. Admission is free.

COINAGE OF SILVER DOLLARS

Immediate standard silver dollar coinage resumption has been requested of the Secretary of the Treasury. The Copper City Coin Collectors Club of Butte, Mont., unanimously adopted a resolution at its recent monthly meeting requesting striking of the Peace dollar to be followed as soon as practical by a new design depicting current times, such as the Space Age.

Resolution has been sent to United States Senator Mike Mansfield with request that it be forwarded to the Secretary of the Treasury. Other members of Montana's Congressional delegation received copies.

A total of over $60 million silver dollars have been melted as uncurrent under a wartime emergency Act without any replacement for an eleven per cent drop in total stock while population has increased fifty per cent last three decades and silver dollar circulation is up 1275 per cent to an all time high.

Under Section 4 (b) of the Act of July 6, 1939, standard silver dollar coinage and delivery to owners, who are certificate holders, is mandatory on all domestic bullion, excepting Treasury's profit, and there are over $80.6 million certificates backed by bullion so acquired.

Bureau of the Mint states that Montana residents use more silver dollars in daily trade than any other state in the Union.

It is believed that this is the first organized coin club in the United States to request officially recoinage of our standard silver dollar. Officers signing resolution included Richard Gregerson, President, Rex McCulley, Vice President, and Mrs. W. H. Morrow, Secretary-Treasurer. The resolution states:

WHEREAS, WE ARE UNITED STATES CITIZENS AND MEMBERS IN GOOD STANDING of the Copper City Coin Collectors Club of Butte, Montana, and are students of coins and currencies of other nations as well as our own and standard silver dollars are a prerequisite as media of exchange in our daily trade, AND,

WHEREAS, THE STANDARD SILVER DOLLAR OF 412½ grains, 900 fine or 371¼ grains of pure silver, has not been struck since October, 1935, nor has a new design been issued since the December, 1921, Peace dollar and average of major periods for not coining the silver dollar since 1794 has been twenty-six years and average between new designs has been forty-two years, AND,

WHEREAS, OVER $60 MILLION STANDARD SILVER DOLLARS HAVE BEEN WITHDRAWN as uncurrent during last twenty years for an eleven per cent reduction of total stock without replacement, nor has there been any allowance made for a fifty per cent population increase during last three decades even though standard silver dollars in circulation have risen 1275 per cent to an all time high, AND,

WHEREAS, END OF DECEMBER, 1962, THERE WERE OVER $2 BILLION IN BULLION on deposit with our custodian in the Treasury of the United States which are now securing working representative certificates, redeemable on demand, with only $76.3 million silver dollars acting as certificate-security for one of the smallest coverages of representative paper since 1883, and over $38.5 million silver dollars were reclaimed during year for the largest total redemption in the history of that coin, AND,

WHEREAS, THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY HAS BEEN AUTHORIZED BY THE CONGRESS under Section 5 of the Silver Purchase Act of 1934 to coin the standard silver dollar and no further authority is required for recoinage nor for a new design as twenty-five year waiting period between new designs has elapsed, AND,

WHEREAS, SECTION 4 (b) OF THE ACT OF JULY 6, 1939, MAKES STANDARD SILVER dollar coinage mandatory on all newly acquired domestic silver under that Act, excepting seigniorage bullion, and there are over $80.6 million in representative silver purchase certificates secured by unstruck bullion, so acquired, and delivery of standard silver dollars in that amount is mandatory to owners, who are certificate holders,

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED, THAT WE, THE MEMBERS OF THE COPPER CITY COIN COLLECTORS CLUB in our regular monthly meeting assembled, do hereby respectfully and unanimously request the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States of America to resume immediate coinage of our legal standard silver dollar from bullion now on hand using the Peace dollar design to be followed as soon as practical by a new design reflecting the period and times we are living in such as the Space Age.

MAGIC COIN SHOP

NOT SO VERY LONG AGO, but very far away, there was a magic coin shop. Not that the shop itself was magic, for it was just another stall in the Great Bazaar of the Imperial City of Persepolis. But the shopkeeper was a magician of sorts, as you shall see. His name was Ali bin Ibrahim, and he came from the far north. He had many friends and some enemies, as most men do, and he was commonly known as "Honest Ali."

The magic he practiced was recognized by his rivals and by his customers, with envy by the former, but often with joy by the latter. A bag of old silver or copper coins brought to him and purchased for little more than their value as scrap metal could be transmuted into objects of great value.

Yet Ali was no alchemist: he had learned to recognize the images and superscriptions of the great rulers of the world, and could thus distinguish coins of some rarity from such as would commonly be found in the bazaars. And there were many persons in the Imperial City who cherished things that were old, and of these many found joy in the collecting of old and unusual coins, so that Ali had a ready market for most of the coins that he discovered.

On a certain morning, as he sat in his shop meditating on the latest increase in the price of opium and on the proposed increase on the sales tax, an elderly peasant came to him and spake thusly: "O Ali, Thou Honest One! Digging in my garden to plant cabbages, I have indeed found a great treasure, so that I have brought it straight to thee."

Ali greeted him coolly, for indeed he thought but little of cabbages, and said, "Well enough, my friend, but let me see them, and if I find aught of value I shall indeed pay thee well." The elderly one poured out upon Ali's counter some ten-score pieces of silver and copper, mostly quite encrusted with soil, and Ali sorted through them rapidly.

"Why, then, we have little enough here, my friend; I doubt that I shall find a market for such as these short of the melting pot. Yet there is good weight of copper here, and some silver. Lo, I shall pay thee two dinars for them, since one cannot think on naught save the reaping of profit."

The peasant eagerly grasped the coins proffered him and, calling blessings upon the head of Ali the Honest, promptly left in search of the nearest wine-shop. Ali glanced over the coins again, and then placed them in containers of cleansing solutions to remove the encrusted soils before washing them carefully in olive oil of the best quality, which he imported especially from a distant realm, the Sultanate of Qualiforniyah.

Before he had quite completed this task, a regular customer, one Zeki Pasha, a high official of the Imperial Street Cleansing Service, came upon him, greeting him merrily and asking after his health, when, seeing the mass of coins laid out on the counter, he fell to examining such as were in his reach. Ali chided him for such effrontery, but gently, for the man was an old friend and a good customer, and then said, "Lo, Zeki Pasha, if thou still seekest coins of the great Linkan Shah, marked with the initial of Suleyman and the cipher of the artist Vidibi Khan, then look upon this coin which I have just discovered in this rich hoard for which I have indeed paid dearly. And should it be to your liking, why then I can permit thee to buy it for the meager sum of sixty dinars!"

Zeki Pasha inspected the coin and found that Ali had indeed described it rightly. "Ah yes, such a coin have I long desired. But sixty dinars – that is a goodly sum. And I must buy a new camel saddle, too. I can offer thee no more than thirty."

Ali considered gravely, and said: "Of a truth, the life of a poor shopkeeper is hard – taxes, rents, costs always rising – but I could take fifty."

"Nay, forty."

"Well, then, let us say forty-five."

"Well done, then, O Ali the Honest," said Zeki, and paid over that price, and went happily on his way.

Such then was the magic of Ali the Honest, for he had transmuted a simple piece of copper into an article of great value, and had thereby pleased both the one from whom he had obtained it, and that one to whom he had sold it. Worthy indeed is such magic! – L. W. McCABE, A.N.A. No. 18495.

Club News

The members of Hunting Park Coin Club enjoyed having Arthur Sipe, a Governor of A.N.A. and President of M.A.N.A. as their guest speaker at the February meeting. Sipe spoke of the efforts of A.N.A. to help the junior collectors and also of some of its other activities, including the 1963 annual convention to be held in Denver on August 7-10.

At the Club's thirteenth meeting in March, membership passed the two hundred mark. The best exhibit of the meeting was James Maguire's chop marked silver dollars which had circulated in the Far East. We welcome visitors to our meetings the second Saturday afternoon monthly at the Mann Recreation Center in Philadelphia. — JEAN MILLER, Acting Sec.

The Steel City Coin Club celebrated its first anniversary with the admission of fifteen new members on March 3, bringing its total roster to a hundred and twenty, of which sixteen are juniors. The Club is sponsored by Local 2604 of the United Steel Workers of America and meets the first Sunday afternoon monthly in the Steel Workers Hall in Lackawanna, N. Y. The recently elected officers are: President G. Tutuska, Vice President J. Gill, and Secretary Walter K. Besecker, who served as president the first year. Our first coin show is to be held May 25-26 in the C.I.O. Hall at the corner of Ridge Road and Electric Ave. General Chairman Ralph Maltby promises plenty of exhibits and at least twenty-six bourse tables. George McCoy, 5929 Broadway, Lancaster, N. Y. is the bourse chairman. The Club's special guest at the show will be John J. Pittman of Rochester, a member of the Board of A.N.A. We are proud that more than ten of our members hold membership in the A.N.A. — WALTER K. BESECKER, Sec.

President Ann Hall of the Compton (Cal.) Coin Club conducted the February meeting at the Compton New Recreational Center. Ninety persons heard member Ernie Hood speak on "Proof Sets of the World." Ernie displayed some of the most beautiful proof coins, artistically arranged so that both sides could be seen. Program Chairman John Paradowski presented a trophy to Ernie for his fine talk. Another highlight of the meeting was an auction for the eligible Juniors. Adults were not permitted to bid but Junior Auctioneer Ron Dennis requested senior members Ed Barrett and Bob Gee to be the runners. Lots are limited to six per meeting and all are donations, which enables the junior members to start bidding at any amount and get some nice coins at very reasonable prices. All proceeds from these auctions will be used for Christmas gifts for junior members. The Club is having a contest for the design of a seal. The membership will vote in April to select the best design submitted by a member and the winner will receive a 1955 proof set in plastic. Kenneth Young gave a short recap of the N.A.S.C. convention held recently in Los Angeles. Young is also display chairman and with judges Ed Barrett and Mel Kohl presented Ron Dennis with the first place ribbon for his display of "George and Abe," honoring our two great February Presidents. Other exhibitors were Ann Hall, David Parrish and Ken Young. — MRS. VIRGINIA H. DENNIS, Sec.

Some two thousand persons from six states and the District of Columbia attended the March 9 and 10 show of Interstate Coin Club at the Venice Motel in Hagerstown, Md. Congressman Charles McM. Mathias of Maryland's Sixth District formally opened the Club's third semi-annual show in a ribbon cutting ceremony at 10 a.m. Saturday, and then addressed the several hundred collectors present on the merits of the hobby. After the talk by Congressman Mathias, Club President John M. Grout presented a large bronze plaque to Paul E. Garling, Chairman, "in appreciation of outstanding service to Interstate Coin Club." This was the third successful show of which he was chairman. Among the special features of this show are the buffet luncheon on Friday evening for the bourse dealers and members of the show committee. We have unusual praise for the security protection provided by Sheriff Price, his deputies and canine corps, the Hagerstown City Police, Maryland State Police and the local office of the FBI. Several dealers were escorted from and to the bus station by officers as a precautionary measure. The 24-page booklet published by the Club for the show included a two-page history of the Club, a two-page history of Washington County and Hagerstown, four pages on "How the Hagerstown Bank saved Hagerstown from being burned by the Confederate General McCausland in 1864," and other interesting items. A few copies are still available and may be obtained by sending 50¢ in coin to Interstate Coin Club, P. O. Box 901, Hagerstown, Md. At the close of the show it was announced that the next semi-annual show will be held August 31 and September 1 at the same location. — PAUL E. GARLING, Vice Pres.

Our meetings are held the third Sunday afternoon monthly. – JACK PROTAY, Corr. Sec.

The Tri-City Coin Club has resumed its meetings in the second floor auditorium of the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Company service building in Rock Island. Coin Club. Everyone present enjoyed her display of coins portraying famous women and her talk about them, which was spiced with humor and incidents from history. Among competitive exhibitors, Jerry DeMarris won first place with a set of Canadian silver dollars in plastic, while Grace Brainard and Thelma Case shared in a tie for second. – ERIC WARNER, Editor, The Four C Journal

A capacity crowd of 130 members and guests heard Maurice Jensen speak on the "1913 Liberty Nickel" at the February meeting of Torrance Coin Club. He told about the history of each of the five 1913 Liberty nickels, stating that known facts prove that only five were minted. He had a chart showing the name of each owner of each nickel, when it changed hands, the approximate date and amount paid. Program Chairman Foster Hall presented a certificate of appreciation to Jensen for his most interesting talk. Dallas Martin presented a memento, which he made of mosaic tile and coins, to the Club. C. A. (Slim) Dunbar donated a year's supply of plastic proof set holders, and Leroy Borchardt donated two proof sets. Joe Mirkovich, a previous speaker, donated a Mission medal. It takes members and guests like these to help make a friendly and prosperous club, and this Club has many of them. President Wayne Dennis presented Past President Richard Goodson with a trophy in behalf of the members for his services the past year. The starting of the new year brought many changes. Each month there will be a paid-up membership drawing of a proof set in plastic. Door prizes will be issued to each lucky winner according to its value. Auction Chairman Dunbar gave a recap of some changes, including a minimum of 50¢ and a maximum charge of $2.50, per auction sheet. Display Chairman Goodson told of the Board's desire to see more displays to help further numismatics and share knowledge and interest with others. A proof set in plastic will be drawn for among all exhibitors and a ribbon issued to each exhibitor. Ronald Dennis, Elizabeth Goodson, Ann Hall and David Parrish were exhibitors. Some mighty good advice was given to collectors at a recent meeting of Ford City (Pa.) Coin Club by dealer Kermit Evans. He suggested that new collectors plan their hobby and limit their collections to certain types of coins at first. Financial ability should be taken into account; those with quite limited means selecting coins in circulated condition, leaving the proof and uncirculated coins to those who can afford the best. He advised obtaining the rarest dates in a series first, as they are the ones which advance in price fastest. Housing coins should take the value of the coins into account, with the best holders being used for expensive pieces. He mentioned a number of coins which have increased in value greatly within the last five years or so, but advised that the worth of a collection should be secondary to the pleasure derived from it. In conclusion, Evans stated that "if you love your hobby the smallest collection will seem like the treasures of a monarch." – IRENE MAZUR, Sec.

Breaking with the usual concept of a profit-making convention, the Northwest Florida Coin Clubs held one on March 9-10 in Panama City which was both successful and a financial "break-even." Securing a beautiful ballroom in the Marina Administration Building, with a view of the Gulf of Mexico on three sides, at a cost of only $50, other expenses were geared to the income from twenty-four bourse tables at $10 each and $150 from the three-hundred lot auction. Beautiful silver trays for exhibit awards cost $300, and the remaining $40 went for miscellaneous expenses. The cost of the auction catalog was offset by selling ten advertisements in it, and the Panama City Police Department furnished police protection at no charge. Exhibit winners were: United States coins and paper money – Charles D. Price; foreign coins and paper money – M/Sgt. Gillespie; junior class – Arthur Gadavian; educational class – Mrs. Billie Hilton; general and specialized – M. J. Moloney; club exhibits – Sonic Boom Coin Club. Silver trays went to three other clubs for exhibits that represented at least a fourth of their memberships, and one was given to Art Lovi in appreciation for his fine non-competitive exhibit. The Mayor of Panama City opened the convention, and brought along the collection he started forty years ago as a gas station attendant. C. Blalock and Art Lovi, to learn about the coins and currency they had. Participating clubs were the Big Bend Coin Club, Tallahassee, Silver Sands Coin Club, host, Sonic Boom Coin Club, Fort Walton Beach, and the Pensacola Gulf Coin Club, Pensacola. Feeling that the affair was a success to everyone concerned, the same group plans to hold a similar one next year in Tallahassee.

RENWICK, Sec.-Treas.

Although August 3-4 is several months away, chairmen of the various activities of the Missouri Numismatic Society's fourth annual Coin Festival are hard at work with new ideas to make this one of the finest shows of the 1963 summer. Fine numismatic material is being sought for the two eighty-lot auctions, and the bourse will be limited to forty-nine tables to alleviate congestion for the 4,500 people expected to attend. As in previous years, many unusual and interesting exhibits are expected in the competition for awards. The Festival will be held in the grand ballroom of the Statler Hotel at Ninth St. and Washington Ave., in St. Louis, Mo. Information may be obtained from the chairman at 7420 Canterbury, Maplewood 17, Mo. – WILLIAM R. DECLUE, Chm.

President Richard Foley spoke on "Sommer Island Coins" at the February 5 meeting of Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society. What is probably the largest collection of Sommer Island pieces in the world was displayed. Included were the 1612 six pence, 1616 shilling, three pence (only three known) and two pence, as well as commemorative coins, copies, mules and tokens. Part of this material was from the collection of the late George H. Clapp, A.N.A. No. 2465, which is now in the Carnegie Museum. Foley evolved the history of the Sommer Islands, later known as Bermuda Islands, in an interesting manner from the time of the original Spanish records of 1515 and Admiral Sommer's shipwreck in 1609. The island became known as "Hog Island" from the numerous hogs which invaded it from the shipwreck, the coins being called "hog money" or "hoggies." Other fine but unrelated exhibits were by H. Bartley, F. Beam, J. Burns, R. Byrne, J. Kennedy, G. Kiefer, G. Mooney, R. Porter, Jr., Dr. J. O. Sloss and W. W. Woodside.

The March 5 meeting of the Society was devoted to a talk on "The Money of the Isle of Man" by William W. Woodside. His historical sketch of the Isle began with the time of the Vikings about 800 A.D., rule under the Scandinavian Kings of Dublin, control alternately by England and Scotland for a century prior to 1333, then English rule. In 1406, the Crown granted rule of the Islands to Sir John Stanley and his family, but since 1829 they have been a British possession and a Crown dependency with a governor, parliament, court, bar, etc. Elizabeth II is the present "Lord of Man." Speaking of coins, Woodside told us that Roman, Anglo-Saxon, English, Irish, Scottish and Danish coins were used prior to the 17th century. The first piece struck for Man was a brass penny token issued in 1668 by John Murrey, a merchant of Douglas, and of great rarity now. The talk was concluded with a discussion and exhibit of the interesting money of the Isle of Man, which ended in 1839. Other exhibits were by D. Adams, H. C. Bartley, J. F. Burns, R. T. Foley, E. L. Oschman and Dr. J. O. Sloss. – DR. ROBERT HUDSON, Sec.-Treas.

(Editor's note: For more on Manx money, see the article by J. Verner Scaife, Jr., in the January 1954 issue of The Numismatist)

The thirty-three attending the February 21 meeting of Echo Park (Los Angeles) Coin Club enjoyed LeRoy O. Borchardt's fine talk on "Honorable Lincoln Cent." He spoke on the origin of the coin, the history of designer Victor D. Brenner, and discussed rarities such as the 1909-S VDB, 1914-D, 1924-D, 1955 die shift, and the 1960 "small" date. The Club changed its auction rules to eliminate the minimum fee, making a straight five per cent charge for all items sold. – JACK C. MACKAY, Corr. Sec.

The Lincoln Land Coin Club has announced plans for its third annual show to be held June 8-9 at the St. Nicholas Hotel in Springfield, Ill. Exhibitors are expected from all parts of the State to compete for the grand award trophy and for first, second and third place ribbons in U. S., foreign, and general categories. Exhibitors must furnish their own cases and have exhibits ready for judging at 1 p.m. Saturday. Our concern for the dealers is shown in limiting the number of bourse tables to thirty-five. Rajah's Coin Company of St. Louis will hold auctions at 7 p.m. Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday. We invite all collectors to take part in this great show in a hotel which has a wide variety of guest rooms, superb dining facilities, complete air conditioning, and most modern equipment and services for a big coin show. Those in the know – go to the Lincoln Land coin show. We hope to see you June 8-9. – LARRY DURHAM, Pres. and Show Chm.

The Indianapolis Coin Club has undertaken to assist Miss Grace Golden, Curator of the Indianapolis Childrens Museum, in reclassifying the Museum's existing coin and currency collection and in arranging attractive traveling displays. An appeal is being made to members to donate coins as additions to the collection, and to give time in completing the project. The Museum attracts young people in school groups during the week, as well as individual visitors on weekends and holidays. It is felt that the numismatic items will add interest for young numismatists and inspire children to take up the hobby. – CLAUDE E. TYNDALL, Corr. Sec.

The Lea County Coin Club's first coin show will be held May 4-5 in the High School Cafeteria in Hobbs, New Mexico. The several chairmen are making every effort to assure that this first show will be a success, from the exhibits being handled by Jack Story, the bourse by Max Clampitt, and the auction by Withers Kansas Coin Co. Floyd Covill of McCamey, Texas, will exhibit his fine material on a non-competitive basis, and J. V. McDermott will loan us his famed 1913 Liberty Head nickel. We are especially anxious to have as many first time exhibitors as possible. A hearty invitation is extended to any and all collectors to spend these two days with use in the southeast corner of New Mexico. – DOUGLAS W. WEAVER, Gen. Chm.

President Joe Sterner of Utah Numismatic Society has appointed Sheldon Elliott to lead a drive to promote numismatic activities in the state. This will include the formation and stimulation of clubs in other cities, contacting active collectors, and planning for a statewide show in the fall. Elliott is widely known across the state and is convinced that the potential for development is almost unlimited. He will be glad to hear from others interested in the drive, at the Club address, 826 Garfield Ave., Salt Lake City. The 118 persons at the February 18 meeting was a near record and implies that our hard working officers are staging meetings which the members like. A panel composed of Karl Dean, Fred Gehring and Joe Plant discussed coin grading, based on the definitions in the Whitman Red Book, Coin World and Brown and Dunn's book. It was pointed out that old and rare coins should be graded by the same standards as others, without regard for their age and higher value. Dr. Soffe, a former president who recently returned to our community, was awarded a life membership in recognition of his past services. – C. E. CRANE, Editor of Mintmaster

Dr. V. Clain-Stefanelli, Curator of the Division of Numismatics at Smithsonian Institution was guest speaker at the March 1 annual dinner of Shenandoah Numismatic Society. Nearly one hundred persons present enjoyed his talk on the development of the Institution and his slides of the coin displays there.

Mrs. Clain-Stefanelli and B. M. Douglas were among the other important numismatic guests. In the auction which followed the dinner, a 1796 dime brought $460 and a 1909-S VDB cent went for $135. Charles Affleck donated a frame of "Vanishing Americana," which included a large size note and four old coins, that added $26 to the Society's treasury.

At the February 21 meeting of the Numismatic Forum of New York, a resolution was passed unanimously condemning the practice of reproducing any numismatic items and also condemning the publications which advertise these reproductions and the dealers who sell them. – EMANUEL K. COHEN, Rec. Sec.

President Robert Whalen appointed chairmen of the various phases of the affair some time ago to permit careful planning for the twenty-five table bourse, unusual and interesting exhibits, round the clock police protection, the serving of refreshments, etc. Regular meetings of the Club are held the first Wednesday monthly, and we are hopeful that this show will help us to reach the two hundred membership mark. Seventy-four members and guests of Toronto Coin Club were pleased to have Honorary Member John J. Pittman, a director of C.N.A. and governor of A.N.A., present at the Club's February 23 meeting. He gave a most informative talk on counterfeit coins, explaining how to recognize them, how to avoid them and how to oppose the striking of copies. As an example of the difficulties sometimes encountered in determining the authenticity of a coin, he cited the recent case of a 1936 dot cent that had been accepted as authentic until X-ray plates, which he exhibited, revealed that the dot had been added after minting. On coin investments, John emphasized the importance of Canadian coins in choice condition, and suggested that more interest may arise in Scottish coins, which are still low in price relative to their scarcity. A special greeting was extended to Chester Krause, well known publisher of Numismatic News, Iola, Wisconsin, who was making his first visit to Toronto. Versatile Bill Lavell added an attraction to the meeting by showing his interesting color film of the Club's anniversary banquet. – FRANCES DOANE, Editor

We cordially invite all fellow numismatists to attend and enjoy our first coin show with us. – ROBERT F. JOHNSON

The attendance of seventy-eight at the March meeting of Glen City (Cal.) Coin Club broke another record. Ray Bower gave a fine talk on gold coins, tracing the history of U. S. gold mintage from 1795 to 1933. Among his very interesting comments was that the color of gold reveals the area from which it came, as no two areas have exactly the same shade of bullion. Ray brought along one of his beautiful exhibits of gold coins and nuggets. The Club was especially appreciative of his efforts because he gave the talk on short notice when it developed that the scheduled speaker could not attend this meeting.

Members of DeKalb (Ga.) Coin Club have marked May 3 and 4 on their calendars and reserved them for their second annual coin show, which is the climax of the Club's National Coin Week activities. An ideal site for the affair will be the Alumni Memorial Building auditorium on the famed Emory University campus, where the Museum and Library will be added educational attractions. Thomas W. Becker's Pageant presents commemorative coins of every country in the world issued during the past 100 years. History comes alive in excellent illustrations and vivid descriptions of the great events the coins are commemorating. The study is made easy; all inscriptions on foreign coins are translated, designers' names are given, and mint records listed. 208 pages, 6″x9″, deep red soil-resistant hard cover.

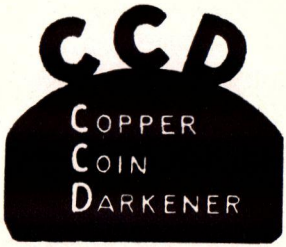
To preserve, beautify and enhance the value of your coins, we recommend and offer

Our own product, unequalled for cleaning coins, particularly useful on coins of copper or nickel. Easy to use, rapid and economical. In stores a 4-oz. bottle is $1.00. The full 4-oz. bottle is now mailed anywhere in the U. S. or Canada for $1.00.



Our new product. Use it to restore the color of age to coins which have been cleaned. Introduced in 1962 and 15,000 bottles sold in four months. In stores the 4-oz. bottle is $1.00. The same bottle will be sent by mail for $1.00, postpaid in U.S. or Canada. "CCD" turns your coins brown, not black.

"CARE"

Recommended for conditioning and preserving coins. Improves appearance and protects against corrosion. The 2-oz. bottle will treat thousands of coins. In stores, $1.35 or by mail, postpaid in the U.S. or Canada, $1.50

"JEWELUSTER"

We have ourselves used and recommended this dip for more than 12 years; principally for removing tarnish from proof and uncirculated silver coins (Commemorative halves, etc.). 5-oz. plastic jar is $1.00 in stores, or $1.25 postpaid in U. S. or Canada.

"V. M. CLOTH"

For "high-lighting" and improving appearance of badly worn coins. Valuable accessory when used according to directions. Price: 50¢, postpaid in the U.S. or Canada.

Send $4.75 for one each of "CCC," "CCD," "CARE" and "JEWELUSTER" (postpaid) and get the "V. M. Cloth" free.

When we say "postpaid" we mean carefully packaged to meet stiff postal requirements, and safe delivery guaranteed.

DEALERS' INTRODUCTORY OFFER: Get six bottles of "CCC" (4-oz.), "CCD," or "JEWELUSTER" for $4.00 postpaid, or six "CARE" for $5.40 postpaid. Order six each of the four accessories for $17.40 postpaid and receive six V. M. cloths free.

When you sell your collection the ideal sale is one in which . . .

*You receive the highest prevailing market price

*You are paid immediately

Empire Coin Company offers you this opportunity. Our large clientele, large volume of business (over $1,000,000.00 per year in sales) and up-to-the-minute knowledge of the rare coin market enable Empire to operate on a smaller margin of profit . . . resulting in a higher price being paid to you. During past years Empire has purchased rarity after rarity and collection after fine collection. Why has Empire had such an outstanding record purchase success? The reason is simple. EMPIRE IS WILLING TO PAY MORE.

When you sell to Empire, you will receive immediate "cash on the barrelhead" payment. No waiting, no delays, no indefiniteness of what your coins "might" bring if offered on consignment. In addition, all details of the transaction will be kept confidential. Even the fact that you sold your collection to Empire will be held in confidence, if you so desire. When you sell to Empire, you will be assured of a pleasant and satisfactory transaction. We believe that you, like many other numismatists, will like the Empire way of doing business.

We are prepared to offer you the highest prevailing price . . . well over catalog listings for particularly desirable pieces.

Canadian Coins — Top prices paid for decimal coins, sets and collections with emphasis on choice condition. Also specimen sets, patterns, etc.

English Coins — We have the world's largest inventory of 19th and 20 century English coins, as we are willing to pay the price. Sample buying prices: Unc. 1869 penny, $285.00; 1927 Proof set $75.00.

Coins of the World — All choice, rare or desirable crowns, gold coins, patterns, sets, etc. wanted. Top prices paid.

THOMAS JEFFERSON

NEW MEDAL COMMEMORATES THE AUTHOR OF THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

The new Thomas Jefferson medal is the fourth in the Signers Art series. This unique bas-relief sculpturing and the close likeness to Thomas Jefferson makes this piece a valuable collectors item . . . whether you are just starting or adding to your collection of Presidential Art Medals. The reverse of this medal bears Jefferson's signature as it actually appears on the Declaration of Independence. The other sculptured symbols on the reverse are a part of a continuing emblematic story on the reverse of each medal in the signers series. When the series is complete, these emblems will relate the entire story of the American Revolution.

The new Thomas Jefferson medal is offered as follows:

Platinum (pure) . . . . . 25 serially numbered pieces . . . . . $500.00 each
Silver (.999+) . . . . . 7500 serially numbered pieces . . . . . $ 10.00 each
Bronze . . . . . $ 2.50 each

* Fill in coupon below for complete details on the availability of serially numbered silver medals.

The Famous Whitman Bookshelf Album is now available for displaying Presidential Art medals . . . it will not be made available to any other commemorative medal firm striking private issues.

The Presidential Art medals program consists of the three series of finely sculptured, high quality medals shown above. One medal will be issued each month, alternating among the series, until all three series are complete.

THESE BRONZE MEDALS ARE NOW AVAILABLE FOR IMMEDIATE DELIVERY AT THE ORIGINAL ISSUE PRICE OF $2.50 EACH.

A series of beautifully sculptured, numismatically designed medals commemorating famous coin designers. The Augustus Saint-Gaudens and Victor D. Brenner medals, the first two in the COIN MEDALS series, are now ready for immediate shipment, and the Charles E. Barber medal will be ready in June.

COIN MEDALS are sculptured in very high relief on both obverse and reverse by master artist Robert Schabel, and quality struck by The Metal Arts Company of Rochester, New York. The obverse of every COIN MEDAL depicts the finest medallic work of the artist being commemorated, and the reverse, as shown above, symbolizes his work in coins.

COIN MEDALS are issued in bronze, and in a serially numbered pure silver issue not to exceed 5000. Each medal is three inches in diameter, and weigh close to a half-pound in silver, so they are not to be confused with ordinary coin size medals.

A Clear Statement of Policy –

(Gold Included)

Crowns of the World and Gold of the World.

(Prior to 1933 of course)

Complete type set of commemoratives including Lafayette Dollar and Isabella Quarter. UNC. to BR. UNC. 2,350.00.

U. S. Ten Dollar Gold piece BR. UNC. A beauty, 750.00.

Indian Cent 1877, nice VF, 300.00.

Lincoln Cent, 1922 Plain. This coin is the type with the extremely sharp reverse. The obverse has the usual blurring of the hairline and lettering. This coin has probably been cleaned one time or another but it is an outstanding specimen. A bargain at 1,000.00.

U. S. Commemorative Gold Set of eleven pieces. A beautiful set 2,450.00.

Tuscany 1604 obverse Ferdinand, reverse St. John The Baptist. The detail and patina of this coin is absolutely gorgeous. In fact, I could become poetic about the reverse of this coin. Well worth 150.00.

We will have a Bourse Table at the A.N.A. Convention this summer in Denver.

FOREIGN COINS

For a good many years now a sustained flow of interesting, fairly attributed and soberly priced foreign patterns, gold, crowns, minor coins, medals, proclamation pieces, etc., has moved through my price lists which come out twice a month.

If you have a collection, hoard or stock of worthwhile foreign material you'd like to dispose of advantageously through competent hands, I'd like to hear of it.
